		ii. In Effective Communication, the objectives of communication will be included within the 'Introduction to Communication' section, rather than taught as a separate topic. Also, it was proposed to delete part of writing skills, such as letters of appointment, promotion, termination, and recommendation, as students are not expected to draft these in practice. 2. It was noted that topics like Basics of Micro economics fall under the Economics Board of Studies, and Effective Communication fall under the Department of English and Indian Languages Board. However, since these subjects are part of the Financial Markets curriculum, they were brought forward for discussion within the Financial Markets Board of Studies. 3. All these subjects were thoroughly discussed and reviewed by the Board, and will be formally ratified by the respective subject experts. 4. It was suggested by the Board that in case of changes in syllabus of existing subject there should be no change in the course code, but the academic year from which the change is implemented should reflect in the respective course syllabus. 5. It was unanimously agreed to take into consideration the suggestions given by all the members and the same shall be incorporated; subject to the implementation guidelines issued by the Maharashtra State Government and adopted by the University of Mumbai from time to time.
